Fired by Would-be Assassin.

United Press Telegram.
CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—At 9:15 this morning, the following bulletin was issued by Colonel Roosevelt's physicians, Drs. Murphy, Devan, Lambert and Terrell:

Pulse, 72; temperature 98.5; respiration, 18; all night. Wound dressed twice well; some oozing. Examination of lungs by Dr. Alexander Lambert, in good condition. General condition is splendid. The case is progressing well and unless some complication occurs, the patient will not be removed at present.

The Colonel's physicians issued an optimistic bulletin as to their patient's condition, today, after a thorough examination at 9 o'clock this morning. While they would not say that the Colonel was out of danger, they did say no sign of blood-poisoning had shown and that they were hopeful the patient would pass the crisis tomorrow without such a development.

The Colonel was in high spirits this morning. He laughed and joked with the nurses, physicians and wife, who passed almost the entire morning with her husband.

"I'm bully fine. Had a good sleep and feel that I could start for Oyster Bay today if they would let me," Mrs. Roosevelt, and the physicians promptly told the Colonel that unless the case progressed more favorably there was no chance of going away from Chicago until after Sunday.

Mrs. Roosevelt was very positive on this point, and the doctors supported her. Roosevelt finally said he would stay until the doctors and his wife thought it safe for him to move, though he wanted to get back to Oyster Bay at the earliest moment.

During the early hours this morning, no one was admitted to the room except Mrs. Roosevelt, the doctors and the attendants. One of the attending physicians told the United Press that Roosevelt's condition last night was not an improvement. Every attempt was made to keep visitors away and to prevent the usual attendance with which Roosevelt accompanies his conversations.

He said the broken sleep probably was accounted for by the fact that the fracture of the rib annoyed him when he moved in his sleep. For the same reason the Colonel was advised this morning to move as little as possible. Every attempt was made to keep visitors away and to prevent the usual attendance with which Roosevelt accompanies his conversations.

CHARLOTTE, Oct. 17.—"I was sorry to hear of the attempted assassination of Col. Roosevelt at Milwaukee," said Governor J. C. Taylor on his visit here. "It is bad that such things happen. An assassin's bullet was prepared for President Taft at Atlanta on the occasion of his recent visit there. Fortunately it didn't land."

UNIVERSITY GRADUATE FINED
FOR DRUNKENNESS BY BURGESS*Howard Smith, Ex-Accountant, Tells Story to Juries, But Suffers
Penalty; Others in Court.

Claiming he was an expert accountant and a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania, Howard Smith, 22 years old, today was before Burgess J. C. Evans in police court this morning for drunkenness. Smith's story was discarded and he was fined $5.00.

Andrew Baker, Jesse Shaw and Charles Brown, negroes, each paid a $5 fine for drunkenness and fighting. Josh Cooper, a local character, was given 48 hours in a chair for drunkenness. J. C. Evans paid $2.00 for fighting. Charles Carter, colored, of Harrisburg, Pa., was given 15 minutes to leave the borough.

Promoted on Western Maryland.

J. P. Hendricks was yesterday promoted by the directors of the Western Maryland railroad, meeting in Baltimore, to be vice president in charge of traffic. John F. Fennell was also made a vice president. The latter is now a director of the Washington Terminal. Hendricks has been an active assistant general freight agent for the Western Maryland.

Block Delay West Main Paving.

Completion of the West Main street paving is delayed by lack of bricks. Contractor Barney O'Connor said today he would finish the work an hour after the arrival of the bricks, which have been ordered from Moretown, N. Y. About 2,000 are needed.

OF THEODORE ROOSEVELT TAKEN SOME YEARS

Later reports from Chicago, Ill., today were to the effect that Theodore Roosevelt, who was shot in Milwaukee a few nights ago by John Schrank, a Bavarian who had made his home in New York City, would recover from the wound in his breast. Physicians fear blood-poisoning, however, and are taking necessary precautions. Roosevelt's remarkable vitality is expected to pull him through.

HOLDUPS ALARM ROCKWOOD.Several Citizens Robbed Last Few Weeks; Collier Harassment.

Special to The Courier.
ROCKWOOD, Oct. 17.—Residents of Rockwood are alarmed over the many holdups which have occurred here and in South Lewis over the last few weeks. Several citizens of Rockwood are reported to have been held up by thugs.

Several of the robberies have occurred near the lower Baltimore & Ohio crossing and the Red Bridge near the new Western Maryland station. Several dollars in the residents' pockets have been ransacked the last few weeks.

FAYETTE COUNTY URGES AID
FOR MOTHERS AND WORKMEN*Poor Directors' Council at State Meet, Delivers Address Upon Need of Such Laws.

Fayette county's directors of the poor favor a mother's pension bill and a workman's compensation act. This was stated by Attorney John Dugan, of Uniontown, counsel for the directors, upon his return, today, from Erie, and the state convention.

An address recommending both measures to the convention was made by Attorney Dugan in behalf of Directors George M. Strickler and J. J. Barnhart, of this county. In the proposed mother's pension bill, the directors suggested that destitute mothers be paid sums directed by the court, to maintain children by their own homes, the women to make periodical reports to the parole officer.

In the proposed workman's compensation act, the suggestion was that injured workmen should be paid without regard to contributory negligence and manner of employment, the money to go to their estates in event of death. Directors Strickler and Barnhart and Stewart Honsacker of the Fayette County Home, are at the convention.

Change in Local Eleven.

Coach B. B. Smith, of the High School football squad, today announced that McCormick would be shifted to left end, the position he has played for three years. In order to strengthen the line, a new formation was tried at practice yesterday afternoon, and will be used the first time in the game with Latrobe, Saturday. The squad was given a scrimmage practice this afternoon. Coach Smith said the Latrobe lineup is practically the same this year as last when the Latrobe team held the Connellsville eleven to 11 points.

Democratic Ox Run at Latrobe.

An ox race will be held by the Democrats of Latrobe, today. The speakers include Congressman Curtis H. Green, of Greensburg, Congressman Harrison of New York, Robert Cresswell of Johnstown, candidate for Auditor General; George Shaw, candidate for congressman-at-large, and Jay Splinter, candidate for State Senator.

Fayette Prisoner Denied Pardon.

The State Board of Pardons at Harrisburg yesterday refused a pardon to Frank Cuthbert, of Fayette county, sentenced for larceny, and granted a re-hearing to John B. Shields, of Westmoreland county, charged with misdemeanor in office.

W. C. T. U. NAMES COMMITTEE
FOR THANKSGIVING AND ELECTIONS*Local Branch Prepares for Holiday
Reception; Mrs. W. H. Clasper Appointed Recording Secretary.

The local Women's Christian Temperance Union, at the regular monthly meeting in the Carnegie Free Library, yesterday afternoon, appointed a committee to arrange for the Thanksgiving benevolent work. The committee is composed of Mrs. Edward Dunn and Mrs. Mary Kane.

Mrs. George S. McClay, for several months recording secretary of the Connellsville branch of the union, has resigned, and Mrs. W. H. Clasper was elected to fill the vacancy. Mrs. E. G. Hall was elected assistant secretary. Mrs. McClay, with her family, moved to Latrobe.

A meeting for women only will be held, Friday, November 8, when Dr. O. C. Enkie, of Scotland, will deliver an address on the effects of alcohol upon child life. Two new members, Mrs. McCollins and Mrs. McKeel, were elected. Mrs. McKelins was elected superintendent of the evangelistic department. Miss Blanche Cain, of Mount Lake Park, Md., was a visitor. "The Union Signal," the National organ of the W. C. T. U., and the "Crusader Monthly," were subscribed for by the Y. M. C. A.

A meeting of the officials of the passenger department of the Baltimore & Ohio, according to advice today from Pittsburgh will be held the next two weeks to discuss the new passenger schedule which will become effective next month.

It is intimated the Baltimore & Ohio may put a fast train on the local division between Connellsville and Pittsburgh in about one hour and 15 minutes, reducing the present time 30 minutes, may be operated.

Yesterday was the monthly pay day for the Baltimore & Ohio. Approximately $250,000 was distributed among employees of the Connellsville division.

For Bridge at Brownsville.

Commissioners of Fayette and Washington counties will hold a joint meeting at South Brownsville, tomorrow morning, to arrange for preliminary work in the construction of a bridge over the Monongahela river at Brownsville. Plans for the structure probably will be presented, and a day to start work decided upon.

Marjetta Buys Humbert Hotel.

George Horckwell Marjetta, of Connellsville, has purchased the Hotel Humbert, at Humbert, from Samuel A. Patterson, pending the transfer of the license, and, it is said, will assume active management of the hostelry.

CONVENTION OF 1913*Delegates at Uniontown Session Endorse Widespread Temperance Movement.*SYMPATHY FOR COL. ROOSEVELT*Resolution Adopted in Relation to Attempted Assassination; Senator Tus-sitt, of Philadelphia, Elected President of Pennsylvania Assembly.

Connellsville's delegation and laymen returned from the fifth anniversary of the Pennsylvania Baptist General convention, in Great Bethel Baptist Church, Uniontown, after the final session last night.

Chester was selected for the 1913 convention, and officers were named as follows: President, Senator Ernest L. Tustin, Philadelphia. First Vice President, George K. Crozer, Lancaster. Second Vice President, L. L. Rue, Philadelphia. Third Vice President, Lewis C. Walkinshaw, Greensburg. Secretary, the Rev. Charles A. Walker, Clarion. Treasurer, Ray L. Hudson, Philadelphia.

Important resolutions were those endorsing a widespread temperance movement and expressing sympathy for Colonel Theodore Roosevelt because of the attempt to assassinate him.

Dinner in the convention continued until benediction at 10 o'clock last night. Features of the last session were duets by Misses Elsie Cooper and Marion Ellis, and Mrs. L. W. Brownfield and W. E. Irwin, all of Uniontown.

The concluding program took up women's missionary work, including the following: "Our Work in Cuba," Miss Anna Burdick, Santiago, Cuba; and "Our Work in Burma," Miss Sarah Slater, Burma. These addresses were given before the stowardship conference and dinner at 5:30 o'clock. At the dinner, conducted by the Rev. D. E. Lewis, Harrisburg, were 250, in Bethel Church dining room. "Masculine Religion," by Shailer Mathews, D. D., of Chicago, Ill., was the subject presented. "Moment by moment we are engaged in a man's life," declared Dr. Mathews, "is a man's job, and business men must take God into their business."

Devotional services by the Rev. Fred E. May, of Uniontown, were followed by "Prayer for the World," by Shailer Mathews, D. D., Chicago; and "The Spiritual Life and of Evangelism," by James C. Francis, D. D., Boston, were on the program. "Moment by moment we are engaged in a man's life," declared Dr. Mathews, "is a man's job, and business men must take God into their business."

The Rev. Wilbur Nelson, pastor of the First Baptist Church, was among those introduced to the convention. The Rev. Mr. Nelson formerly was in Uniontown, Mich. With him, Connellsville's convention delegates were J. W. S. Kreger and Mrs. S. S. Moore, parish, Mrs. A. B. Stauffer and Mrs. L. D. Leard. Others who attended from here were Charles Hatfield, Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Boyer, Mrs. Joseph Dixon, Mrs. D. J. Hoover, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kennedy, Mrs. Arlington Herbert, Mrs. W. J. Woodall, Mrs. W. J. Woodall, Mrs. Wilbur Nelson, Misses Jeanie and Nan Boyer, Mrs. S. S. Kreger and Mrs. S. S. Moore.

DUNBAR TOWNSHIP ASSESSOR
SEES DECREASE IN VALUATION*175 Acres of Worked-Out Coal Lands
May Reduce Appraisals, Says
I. R. Myers.

I. R. Myers, assessor for Dunbar township, in Connellsville, yesterday evening, said he had finished about one-third of the territorial assessment, and predicted a decrease in the valuation because about 175 acres of coal, worked out since the change in the valuation of other property.

Myers spoke of the movement for equalization of valuation, particularly of property along the border of townships or boroughs. Myers, yesterday, conferred with James T. Barrett, recently made assessor for Dunbar borough, regarding the valuation of property on the Dunbar borough township line.

Myers has one of the largest townships in the county. The valuation, he said, is between $5,000,000 and $6,000,000. The township comprises 64½ square miles and includes nine coke plants. It requires, he said, about 90 days to make the territorial assessment. He has been at work a month.

B. & O. OPERATORS MEETWire Workers on Local Division to Assess at Rockwood.

Telegraph operators on the Connellsville division of the Baltimore & Ohio will hold two meetings at Rockwood tomorrow, for a general discussion of matters affecting their work.

The meeting has been called by the Order of Railroad Telegraphers. The first party of operators will meet at 8:30 in the morning, and the second in the evening, at 7:30.

FORMER PRESIDENT IN MILWAUKEE

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 17.—John Schrank, who shot Colonel Roosevelt, will be put on trial some time next month. When arraigned for preliminary examination he entered a plea of guilty and when asked as to his preference for the date of the trial said, "Next month." He was remanded to the county jail under $5,000 bail, which he will probably make no effort to furnish.

FRICK OFFICIALS CONSIDER
"COKER" BASKETBALL LEAGUE*Superintendents of Various Plants in Region Confer in Matter with Local Central Leagues.

The formation of a Frick basketball league, which has been remarkably successful this year, is being considered by superintendents of the various Frick plants. The matter has been taken up with officials of the Connellsville Basketball Association. Charles B. Frank, superintendent of the Lehigh Valley plant of the Frick company, has conferred with Secretary J. Lawrence Schick of the Connellsville association, regarding the organization of a team at Lehigh Valley and the movement, according to advice today from various parts of the region, is spreading and gaining favor.

The formation of basketball teams at nearby coke plants would provide, it is said, preliminary games to the Central League contests at the Connellsville basketball hall. Such an arrangement has been considered. Drafted plans concerning the movement probably will be taken up soon after the meeting of the Central League officials at Pittsburgh tomorrow night.

Frick Company Lets Contract.

The Frick Coke Company has awarded the Keystone Planning Mill Company the contract for porches on 15 houses on Nigger Hill. Five of the houses are double. The Keystone company also has contracted for improvements, totaling $600, to the residence of Martin Hilsom, on Johnson avenue, and for remodeling the Smith House.

Wider Files Switch Figures.

John Whitely, of South Connellsville, has filed with the Chamber of Commerce statistics showing comparative freight charges from Connellsville and other points. These statistics will be used by Secretary Henry T. Hogg, upon his return from the Pacific Coast, to obtain the elimination of switching charges of the local railroads.

B. W. Vandergrift and two brothers, former Connellsville railroad men, who left here about two years ago, are among 150 supposed heirs to $100,000,000 worth of real estate in St. Louis, Mo., according to reports received here today.

The heirs, including the former Connellsville railroaders and others in Pittsburgh and vicinity, are planning a second attempt for the estate, left by the will of Hannah Hillman, who died in St. Louis about three years ago.

The heirs held an organization meeting at Pittsburgh recently, but no action was taken toward instituting further legal proceedings for the estate. Another meeting was set for November 26, at which time such steps will be discussed and probably authorized.

The heirs say that "squatters" occupying the estate since Mrs. Hillman's death, cannot give clear titles. Among other heirs are Mrs. J. J. McCormick and Dr. Jane Blanchard, of Pittsburgh, and Mrs. Martha H. Howard, of New Castle, Pa.

Special to The Courier.
EVERSON, Oct. 17.—The first Bull Moose meeting in this locality was held here last evening, when the Tyrone Club assembly hall was filled with a big crowd.

Dr. M. A. Noon presided. There was a good-sized bunch of Uniontown men, who accompanied the speakers. Congressman F. M. Nye, of Minnesota, spoke on the Progressive idea, saying the other parties have pinned their attention too much to the Tariffs and other commercial ideas, and that the Progressive party has added the interests of the home. He also eulogized Theodore Roosevelt.

H. M. Berkle, Somerset, candidate for Congress, read a part of the speech Roosevelt made after he was shot at Milwaukee. J. W. Dawson followed with a speech along local lines, and opposing J. E. Carroll, candidate for Assembly.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—How President Roosevelt ordered the refusal of the Standard Oil contributions in 1904 was presented the Clapp committee, today, by George B. Cortelyou, chairman of the 1904 campaign. Corroborating Colonel Roosevelt, Cortelyou said he gave Treasurer Bliss the order of Roosevelt to refuse Standard Oil money. He said he told President Roosevelt personally that Bliss had assured him none had been received.

After the campaign was over, Cortelyou said he heard that H. H. Rogers, head of the Standard Oil, had contributed. Cortelyou denied he asked J. P. Morgan for money or that the interests underwrote Roosevelt's campaign. He also said he heard the Harriman fund of $250,000 had been raised after the National Committee had given $500,000 and a New York light and refused a request for more.

WATER WORKS BONDS.
A legal question which agitated Conneltsville a couple of years ago has been finally determined by the Supreme Court.

The Borough of Warren sought to buy the water plant of the Warren Water Company under the Millron act of 1909, which authorizes boroughs to make such purchases and to issue bonds against the water works property to raise money for the payment of the purchase price.

A similar proposition was made by the Chamber of Commerce of Conneltsville, and in its decision it was emphatically claimed that Conneltsville borough could issue bonds against the water works of the Conneltsville Water Company using the proceeds for the payment of the purchase price of the plant as authorized by the act.

The Court called attention to the fact that in the case of Conneltsville such bonds could not be issued because they would increase the bonded indebtedness of the town beyond the 7 1/2 limitation set by the Constitution. All the advocates of the water works purchase did not agree with this view of the matter, but most of them finally did, and the agitation was dropped.

In the Warren case, the Supreme Court ruled that the purchase price of the plant could not be paid by bonds issued by the borough in excess of the constitutional limit of 7 1/2 of its assessed valuation.

The Millron act is not unconstitutional, though it aimed at an unconstitutional act. It sought to give boroughs the means of evading a constitutional prohibition, forgetting that the Constitution is always above the law. Its only effect is to empower boroughs to issue bonds against acquired water plants, provided such bonds do not exceed the bonded indebtedness over 7 1/2.

When by reason of its reduced debt or its increased valuation Conneltsville shall have reached the point where it may lawfully buy and take over the Conneltsville water plant, it may issue bonds against the plant under the Millron act, but not otherwise.

As an uplifter and promoter of public ownership of public utilities, the Millron act is about as useful as a millstone.

SAFE TRACK CONDITIONS.
The work of making safe track conditions on the railroads of the country has an ever increasing difficulty when it is confronted with another obstacle.

During the last years of railroad business and profit following the Silver Panic of 1907, the railroads were compelled to cut down operating expenses. They practically ceased the purchase of rails except such as were actually necessary to replace those absolutely worn out, and they reduced their track force to a corporal's guard.

Within the past year it became evident that the railroads would have to buy rails and employ their track force. Weeks were getting too expensive. Some systems were in danger of that political classification known as "streaks of rust." The rush of rail-buying began and the restoration of the lines was a great factor in the general revival of business, illustrating in a striking manner the influence exerted upon the iron and steel trade by the interest which consumes nearly one-third of its product.

Before the work of renewing the rails and tracks has been completed, the railroads find themselves confronted with the common trouble developed by the sudden cessation of industry. They are unable to get sufficient trackmen. This is greatly regrettable because it means the run now being laid down as the primary consideration of railroad management, namely, Safety First.

J. Frost is visiting in the neighborhood.

The South Conneltsville Town Councilmen who voted for better telephone facilities have been voted out of the Socialist party on the ground that they voted for a Social Union, a party of the citizens. The South Conneltsville Socialists are grasping at the shadow of their faith and losing its substance.

The Conneltsville Cent under ground, if the wire did not.

John E. Shields, former Sheriff and present County Commissioner of Westmoreland county, now confined in the Western Penitentiary for misappropriation of fees while Sheriff, has made another application for pardon on the ground that his heart is bad. A bad heart sometimes leads to and sometimes saves from the pen.

Conneltsville will have a night desk present. We may be an Embury City, but we are getting close to the Real Thing. The Plain Clothes Man will arrive next.

It isn't often that Slavish sorrow of the mescaline sort drives the victims to water. It usually leads them to drink.

Washington county is discovering some natural gas now and then. With its Bull Moose hot air this ought to keep the Catfishers warm all Christmas.

The Army of the Cumberland is tenting comfortably close to the old campground.

The railroad frog is a death-trap for track-walkers.

Mount Pleasant continues to be the center of automobile accidents, especially the kind in which those who walk and not those who ride are the victims. It would seem that drivers are more reckless or police more lax in the Hill town than they are in most of the region communities.

Don't Say Underwear Say Munsingwear

Wear Them—You will Like Them.
They Give Complete Satisfaction.

Investigate and experiment all you please—in the end you will wear Munsingwear, and the sooner you do the sooner you will experience complete Underwear satisfaction. No matter what you think about union suits, to know the comfort and satisfaction of a Munsing Union Suit you simply have to wear it. How well they wash, how long they wear, how little they cost, how perfectly they fit and cover the form you cannot know until you enjoy the comfort and satisfaction of becoming a Munsing wearer.

Water Doesn't Hurt Them The Fit Won't Wash Out

Munsing Underwear for women and children are made by people who know how how. The result of many years of experience is shown in the perfection of these garments. No other underwear in the world is made so carefully and conscientiously. All garments are so perfectly shaped in the cutting and making that they retain their form-fitting quality until worn out. More than 6,000,000 of these garments are made annually (over 20,000 daily) necessary to meet the required demand. You must discriminate in buying your underwear.

What You Get for What You Spend Makes it Profitable to Buy Here.

If you want to test out this assertion, try any of our special departments. Try for instance our shoe department. You want to outfit the children for school purposes; perhaps you want a pair of woman's dress shoes, or a pair of men's dress shoes or men's working shoes. It might be shoes for the school children. It makes no difference which line you want. Try our price, try our shoes, and prove the assertion that what you get for what you spend, makes it profitable to buy from the Union Supply Company stores. Shoes are advancing in price daily from the manufacturers caused by the advance in all kinds of material and labor that goes into shoes, yet with all this our prices are low, and if you will give a fair verdict, you will endorse this statement.

Broken Leg Prevents Marshal Bosco Appearing in Court Yesterday

TO RECLAIM HIS STOLEN GOODS

Machinist Lost Valuable Tools and Ten Suffers Broken Leg—Pirates Coming Emancipated—Invitations for Marriage are Issued—Columbus Day Celebration.

Special to The Courier.
SCOTTSBURGH, Oct. 17.—A man giving his name as J. W. Moffet and who was arrested in Connelville charged with breaking into the T. S. Coal Iron Pipe & Foundry Company's machine shop and stealing a number of tools belonging to Marshal Bosco and Elroy Hough, was taken to jail at Greensburg by Constable J. E. Berry this morning. Moffet, who says that he worked at Acme works, was given a hearing before Justice of the Peace S. R. Rutherford last evening. Mr. Bosco was unable to appear against him, for besides losing the tools he suffered worse luck in losing a leg broken while at work yesterday, through a rope breaking and a heavy piece of machinery striking him. Mr. Hough was there, however, and identified the tools as his own. Another man who had been part of one of the tools which were of a small variety, and packed in a little box. This man pleaded not guilty to breaking and entering, but pleaded guilty to receiving stolen goods, claiming that he had been given the stuff to pawn in Connelville. He said that he had worked at Acme works, and on Sunday night at Acme during which time the tools had been taken. The tools were missed when Mr. Hough returned to work on Monday morning.

Health Officer P. P. Goshorn says that the town is almost entirely free from infectious and contagious diseases. The worst and in fact all that is bothering the health of the town just now is typhoid fever, there being three cases, Miss Anna Leuchs, Miss Hazel Johnston and Earl Leonard being the victims.

Dr. and Mrs. W. J. Galt have issued the invitations for the marriage of their daughter, Miss Mildred Brown, to Arthur J. White, of Mt. Pleasant. The ceremony will take place in the First Presbyterian Church of Connelville, on Wednesday, October 23, with the Rev. J. E. Rutherford the officiating clergyman.

PIRATES TOMORROW.
Although the frost has set in on the roofs these morning, pirates are looking for some wonderful turn in the weather by tomorrow that it may be much warmer when the pirate burners reach this place to meet the Scotland team at Connelville park at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. The presence of a big crowd is assumed, and all the fans are hoping that the weather may be as warm as it does to be. The business houses of town are to be closed, and the schools will be closed at 1 o'clock, as it has been announced. Thus will be saved the inevitable blooded boys playing hockey and the fathers of the school else tomorrow's game when they would hear the cheering at the ball game.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS.
Scotland's Council of the Knights of Columbus celebrated the Columbus Day anniversary with a greater success than in years before, with their banquet, dance and reception at Temperance hall. The place was beautifully decorated and the menu was a superb affair. The guests were given a most enjoyable evening and there were speeches by Connellman P. J. McArthur of Pittsburgh, and Very Rev. M. A. Lombard, pastor of St. John's Church of this place. The address of the evening was given by the Rev. J. E. Rutherford, who was to have been one of the speakers, was unavoidably absent. There were about 150 guests and a very pleasant time was had.

STATISTICS.
Samuel Kline, a well known resident of Greensburg, died last night from stomach trouble, aged 65 years. He had formerly worked with J. G. Trilling, the produce man of Connelville, and had lived in this locality for years. He leaves a wife and the following children: Quae, Charles, Walter and Ruth, all at home. The funeral services will be held from the late residence of the deceased on Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock, with burial following in the Scotland Cemetery.

Plans for New Docks.
Plans for new concrete coal and ore docks and for the necessary yards and terminals to be built in Toledo, O., at a cost of approximately $2,000,000, were announced recently by the Hooking Valley Railroad and its parent company, the Chesapeake & Ohio. Work on the docks will be commenced in the first of next month. When completed the Pennsylvania Railroad Company will take over the old docks of the Hooking Valley.

New Jones & Laughlin Crane.
The Jones & Laughlin Steel Company is building a plant of 240 rectangular coke ovens at its Allouez works and expects to have them ready for operation by the end of the coming year. This 400-acre county road will be used for coking.

MARTIAL LAW WITHDRAWN IN KANAWHA COAL REGION

Stalking Miners Import Men and Arms, But Governor Glasscock Thinks No Danger

Martial law, in force since September 4, has ceased in the Kanawha coal region of West Virginia. No serious disturbance has occurred for some time, and Governor William B. Glasscock has little fear that reported raiders could make a stand which could not be handled. Soldiers will cease searches of premises and people for firearms, and guards on trains to prevent smuggling of explosives, weapons or intoxicants will be discontinued. While evidence was found that weapons had been taken into the territory adjacent to the martial law boundary from both Coal River and the Kanawha river ends, yet the threatened attack upon the militia may be entirely abandoned.

Reports that the State militia were used to evict miners from coal company houses on Cabin Creek, said to have been circulated by Socialists, were denied by Governor Glasscock and Adjutant General C. D. Elliott. Twelve families did sleep in the public rooms at Cabin Creek and Keokuk, but that was because they returned effects of the coal companies to pay transportation and freight charges on household goods to some other mining section. Neither would they allow the coal companies to store the household goods until work was secured. The only time militiamen were near the miners was at the request of the men who left one coal company's houses. Then the militiamen guarded the miners' goods.

Damaging evidence against mine guards, however, was given by nine witnesses before the Mining Investigation Committee on October 7. The witnesses declared the mine guards were brutal persons, said to have been chased by the coal companies as "scab-baiters." On the other hand, evidence was given to show the good character of the guards. The committee was told by Cabin Creek miners that they had been satisfied with conditions. Twenty men testified that they averaged a time of 47 for a 9-hour day and work of from 18 to 20 days a month. Part of attack by strikers was given as the only reason they were not at work.

Chief Mine Inspector John Laing told the committee that he did not want his position, but his resignation had not been accepted by the Governor. He declared that he preferred to remain in the position when the men respected officials and contracts, but not under the conditions there.

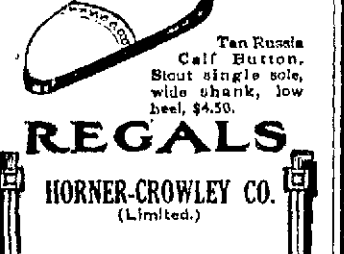

New Mines on Western Maryland.
The Davis Coal & Coke Company is proposing to open two new mines near Calhoun, W. Va., which will have a total capacity of 2,500 tons daily. The Davis system will be developed at this point and it is proposed to spend $500,000 in connection with the project. A new town, to be known as Lexington, will be located between the two plants. The work of building shafts will be started immediately. The Western Maryland will build a spur to the scene of operations.

Briskline Hamsey Buys Coke Plant.
Briskline Hamsey and George B. McCormick, of Birmingham, Ala., have purchased the property of the Miner Coal & Railroad Company, about ten miles from this city. The property consists of a large, 200-acre tract and some 5,000 acres of coal land. Briskline Hamsey is a Connelville coke region.

ARLINGTON HOTEL

The best dressed men are never noticeably dressed. Yet the first glance gives you the idea of refinement. That is the effect of this Regal ARLINGTON MODEL—one of our many new styles. With the prevalent English line, it is simple and reserved, but it looks gentlemanly. You can't help thinking well of the taste of the man who wears it on his feet. 200 Exclusive and Distinctive Picture Hats $7.50 and $12.50

It is hard to do justice in cold type to these wonderfully beautiful Pattern Hats just received from G. H. H. Rooney Co., DuPont, N. Y., one of America's foremost millinery houses who are known for their individuality in Pattern Hats. All the adjectives and superlatives have been used so often and so carelessly that to say that the showing is the finest and the best really means very little. And yet we do wish that every woman that has set her mind on spending $15.00 and $20.00 for her hat could be persuaded to see these at $7.50 and $12.50 before she buys. For example—Hatters plush, and originality, these hats are worth double their prices. As regards to styles, shapes and all the cream of being featured by the most exclusive milliners as the last word of fashion and you will find them here in plenty among these. We will not attempt to describe the beauty of these 200 Pattern Hats as it will take more than an entire newspaper, but will ask you to come in tomorrow and let us show you the splendid hats. THE ROOT OF EVIL

BY THOMAS DIXON

Copyright, 1911, by Thomas Dixon

The girl's arms slipped around his neck in a lightning hold, and she pressed her cheek against his in a moment of silence.

"Papa, dear, it's no use trying to deceive me. I've the right to know what is troubling you. I'm not a child. You must tell me."

"Why, it's nothing much, dearie," he answered gently. "I'm worried a little about money. I've a note due at the bank, and they've called on me unexpectedly to meet it. But I'll manage somehow."

"I'll give up my music, go to work and help you right away."

The father placed his hand gently over her lips, and the tears sprang into his eyes in spite of his effort to keep them back.

"Don't talk sacrilege, my child. Such words are blasphemy. God gave me a man's body for the coarse work of bread winning. I have you the supreme gift, a voice that throbs with eloquence, a power that can lift and inspire the world."

"Proudest me, dear—it's the one wish of my heart, the one thing worth working and struggling for—promise me that you will never stop until the training of your voice is complete; that no matter what happens you will obey me in this. It is my one command. You will obey me?"

"Yes, papa, I promise. If it will make you happy."

"It's the only thing I live for. All I ask is that you do your level best with the gift of God."

"I'll try, papa dear," was the quiet answer as she kissed him again and softly left the room.

Hartley had scarcely reached his room when Adams, the cashier of one of the allied banks, who owed the doctor for three months' rent, entered the library with quick, nervous tread.

"I've news, sir," he said excitedly. "I've a big tip on the stock market."

The older man granted contemptuously.

"Yes, that's what this you, I know. You've been getting them for some time. That's why you owe me for four months. That's why there's something the matter with your accounts."

"I swear to you, doctor, my accounts are clean. I've bought a few stocks. I've made a little and lost a little. I've got the chance now I've been waiting for. I've a real piece of information from the big insiders who are going to make the market tomorrow."

I got it from Bivens' private secretary. The little vessel has made millions on this break, and he has been selling the market short for two weeks. Tomorrow morning he is going to smash it for the last time and at noon throw his millions on the bull side. The market will go down three points on the break in the morning. It will jump five points in ten minutes when it turns the other way. There are stocks on the list that will recover ten points before the market closes."

"Bivens is going to do this?" the older man interrupted. "Then it's a trick. It's a lie. Take my advice and do just the opposite from what you understand. Bivens will sell out his partners in the deal."

"Man, be can't sell out!" the cashier insisted. "It's his own deal. He's in it for all his worth."

The doctor rose with sudden excitement.

"Adams, this is the first time in my life I've ever been tempted to buy stocks. I'm in desperate need of money. I've a note for $3,000 due. I've $2,000 set aside to finish my little girl's musical studies. I've got to meet that note somehow, and I've got to have the money for her. It looks like a chance. I'll go in and watch the market tomorrow."

"If it doesn't cut exactly as I say don't touch it. If it does, go in for all you're worth. If stocks start down as I say they will, sell short, cover at noon and they buy for a rise. Don't listen to fools—just buy, buy, buy! You can sell before the market closes and make $20,000."

"I'll drop into a broker's office and watch the market open, anyway, Adams. Thank you."

The next day the more optimistic traders on the stock exchange expected a change in the market. Stocks had declined for two weeks with appalling swiftness and fatality. Every hour had marked the rule of men bithered bulwarks of solidity. Experienced men reasoned and reasoned from experience that there must be a turn somewhere. The bottom surely had been reached. The time for a rally had come.

Stuart slept late. He was up until 10 o'clock writing a reply to a peculiarly venomous attack on his integrity which a morning paper had printed. The writer had no doubt of the group of financial cutthroats who were coming millions out of the ruin of others in the destruction of public faith.

His reply was simple, and his concluding paragraph was unanswerable except by an epithet.

"My business is the enforcement of justice. I am the servant of the people. If Wall Street cannot stand the enforcement of law so much the worse for the street. It is no affair of mine."

Dr. Woodman hurried downtown to the office of a friend on Pine street, an old fashioned banker and broker whose name had always stood for honesty and fair dealing and conservative business. It was half an hour before the stock exchange opened, but the doctor little office was packed with an excited crowd of customers.

The doctor followed old Dugro, the head of the firm, into his private office and asked his advice. He got—sharp, short and to the point.

"Go home, doctor, and stay there. This market is no place for an amateur. It's all I can do to keep the wolf from my door in these days."

"But I've received some important information."

"Keep it dark," old Dugro scowled. "Don't tell it to your worst enemy. If you've got a dollar, nail it up and sleep on the box."

"But I've some information I think I'm going to act on and I want to open a small account with you."

"All right, I've warned you," was the grim answer. "I wish you good luck."

The doctor drew his check for $2,000 and smilingly took his place among the crowd before the board.

The doctor would tell the story in the first hour. If stocks should sell off three points before noon, he would know. He determined to put this to the test first. "He" would sell into the market. He would be content with the big jump the market would make upward when it started.

As the noon hour drew near the doctor's heart was beating like a sledge hammer. Bivens' program had been carried out to the letter. Stocks had declined for the first hour a point, and in the second hour suddenly smashed down two more points amid the wildest excitement on the exchange.

The moment to buy had come. The doctor was sure of it. Stocks had touched bottom. The big bear pool would turn bull in a moment and the whole market would rise by leaps and bounds.

He called old Dugro.

"Buy for me now Amalgamated Copper, the market leader, for all I'm worth."

The broker glared at him.

"Buy? Buy to this market? Man, are you mad?"

"I said buy!" was the firm answer. "What's the limit?"

"Not a share without a stop loss order under it."

"Well, with the stop?"

"I'll buy you 400 shares on a four point stop."

"And when it goes up five points?" the doctor asked eagerly.

"I'll double your purchase and raise your stop, and every five points up I'll keep on until you are a millionaire!"

The old broker smiled contemptuously, but it was all lost on the doctor.

"Do it quick."

The order was scarcely given before it was executed. Dugro handed the memorandum to Woodman with a grin.

"It don't take long to get 'em today!" The words had scarcely left his lips when a hoarse cry rose from the crowd hanging over the ticker.

Copper had leaped upward a whole point between sales, which cheer swept the room. For ten minutes every stock on the list responded and began to climb.

The doctor's face was wreathed in smiles. Men began to talk and laugh and feel buoyant for the first moment in two weeks.

Dugro grasped the doctor's hand, and his deep voice rang above the roar.

"You're a mascot! You've broken the spell! For God's sake stay with us!"

Suddenly another cry came from the crowd at the ticker. The boy at the board sprang to the instrument with a single bound, his eyes blazing with excitement. His cry of "Down!" echoed every ear in the room with terror.

The panic had come.

In ten minutes stocks tumbled five points, and the doctor's last dollar was swept into space, while the whole market plunged down, down, down into the abyss of ruin and despair.

Men no longer tried to conceal their emotion. Some wept, some cursed, some laughed, but the most pitiful sight of all was the man who could do neither, the man with white lips and the strange, hunted expression in his eyes who was looking death in the face for the first time.

A full quarter of an hour of the panic had spent itself before the dazed crowds in the broker's office read the startling news that caused the big break. The doctor shrank at the message above the storm's din like a little laughing jumbo.

"The Van Dam Trust Company Has Closed Its Doors and Asked For the Appointment of a Receiver!"

Bivens had not kept his solemn pledge. The great bank had stood the run for two hours and closed its doors. And the work of destruction had just begun.

At 3 o'clock the doctor walked out of Dugro's office without a dollar. He felt almost happy by contrast with the fools he left shuffling over the doors of Dugro's office.

His own sense of loss was merely a blur. The revelation he had just had of the market for money which had begun to possess all classes was yet so fresh and startling he could form no adequate conception of his own position.

It was not until he entered his own door and paused at the sound of Hartley's voice that he began to realize the enormity of the tragedy that had befallen him.

CHAPTER X.

At the King's Command.

BIVENS' plan would have gone through without a hitch but for one thing. He had overlooked the fact that the kingdom of Mammon in America has a king and that the present ruler is very much alive. A man of few words, of iron will, of dry temper, of keen intellect, proud, ambitious, resourceful, bold, successful, a giant in physique and a giant in personality.

It happened that his majesty is an old-time Wall Street banker, with inherited traditions about banks and the way their funds should be handled. He had long held a pet aversion. The Van Dam Trust company had become an offense to his nostrils. It had built a huge palace for up town and its president had attempted to set up a court of his own and had gone about him a following among them as president of the United States. Gold had poured into the treasury of the great marble palace in a constant stream until its deposits had reached the unprecedented sum of $50,000,000, a sum greater than the royal bank itself could boast.

When the king heard the first rumor of the fact that the Van Dam Trust was backing the schemes of the Allied Bankers in their sensational raid on the market his big nostrils suddenly dilated.

At last he had them just where he wanted them. He signed the death warrant of the bank and handed it to his executioner without a word of comment. And then a most curious thing happened. The king summoned to his presence a little, dark, swarthy man of about thirty years of age, who appeared at court he was dumfounded. He had long worshipped and feared the king with due reverence and always spoke his name with awe. To be actually called into his august presence in such a crisis was an undreamed-of honor. He hastened into the royal presence with beating heart. The sovereign glanced up with quick curiosity.

"Mr. Bivens, I believe?"

The little man bowed low.

"I hear that you are about to aid the Van Dam Trust with four millions in cash?"

Bivens smiled with pride.

"My secretary will deliver the money to the bank within an hour."

The king suddenly wheeled in his big armchair, raised his eyebrows and stared the little man with a stare that froze the blood in his veins. When he spoke at length his voice was smooth as velvet.

"If I may give you a suggestion, Mr. Bivens, I would venture to say that the Van Dam Trust company is beyond aid. The larger interests of the nation require the elimination of this institution and its associates."

"I have heard good reports of you, and I wish to say you from the disaster about to befall the gentlemen who have been conducting the present campaign in Wall Street. If your secretary will report to me at once with the four millions you have set aside for the Van Dam company I shall be pleased to place your name on my executive council in the big movement

DELICIOUS "SYRUP OF FIGS" FOR A BAD LIVER OR SLUGGISH BOWELS

This Gentle, Effective Fruit Laxative Thoroughly Cleans Your Stomach, Liver and 30 Feet of Bowels of Sour Bile, Poisons, Gases and Clogged-Up Waste.

A harmless cure for sick headache, for biliousness, for a sour, gassy, disordered stomach, for constipation, indigestion, coated tongue, sleeplessness, for the cause of all these troubles lies in a torpid liver and sluggish condition of your thirty feet of bowels.

A teaspoonful of Syrup of Figs to-night means all poisonous waste matters, the undigested, fermented food and sour bile, gently moved on and out of your system by morning, without griping, nausea or weakness. It means a cheery day to-morrow—many bright days thereafter.

Please don't think of gentle, effective Syrup of Figs as a physic. Don't think you are drugging yourself, for luscious figs, senna and aromatics can not injure a man.

This remarkable fruit preparation is a most perfect fruit, liver and bowel cleanser, regulator and tonic, the safest and most positive ever devised.

The day of violent purgatives, such as calomel, pills, salts and castor oil is past. They were all wrong. You got relief, but at what a cost! You acted by force, the bowels with fluids, but these fluids were digestive juices. Syrup of Figs embodies only harmless laxatives which act in a natural way. It does what right food would do—what eating lots of fruit and what plenty of exercise will do for the liver, stomach and bowels.

Be sure you get the old reliable and genuine. Ask your druggist for the full name, "Syrup of Figs and Elder of Senna," prepared by The California Fig Syrup Company, 311 and 313, with scores, any Fig Syrup imitation recommended as "just as good."—Advertisement.

we begin today. The other gentlemen whom I have thus honored are now waiting for me in the adjoining room. They represent a banking power that is resistless at the present moment.

"When the Van Dam Trust closes its doors today a temporary panic will follow. We will give the gentlemen who started this excitement a taste of their own medicine. I shall be a service to the nation and incidentally, of course, earn an honest dollar or two for myself. I trust I have your hearty support in this program?"

Bivens again bowed low.

"My hearty support and my profoundest gratitude."

"I'll expect your secretary with your check for four millions within thirty minutes."

The king waved a friendly gesture of dismissal, and the little dark figure tremblingly withdrew. He had been ordered to stab his associates.

Without a moment's hesitation he gave the cruel orders that sent them hurrying over the precipice.

When the president of the Van Dam Trust company failed to receive the promised millions from Bivens he called his telephone and, receiving no answer, sprang into his automobile and dashed downtown to the little main office.

When the clerk at the door informed him that Mr. Bivens could not be seen by any one, he drove back to the palace of his bank, smiled sadly at the messengers who had come to order its bronze doors closed, walked around the corner to his home, locked himself in his room and blew his brains out.

For a week the panic held the financial world in the grip of death. A dozen banks had closed their doors and a score of men who had long hoisted their courage among men had died the death of cowards when put to the test.

One of the most curious results of the panic was the reversal of popular feeling against the daring and honest young officer of the law who had rendered the greatest service to the people wrought by any public servant in a generation. He was hailed as the arch traitor of the people, the man who had used his high office to produce a panic and serve a fortune out of the ruin of millions who had trusted him to lead up in banks that might never again open their doors.

Stuart, stung to desperation by their infamous charges, attempted at first to repel them. He stopped at last in disgust and unlamented afterward a dignified silence.

From the first day of the run Bivens had laughed in the face of the crowd that besieged the door of his big Broadway bank. He stood on top of the granite steps and shouted to their faces:

"Come on, you dirty cowards! I've got your money inside waiting for you, every dollar of it—100 cents on the dollar!"

The crowd made no reply. They merely moved up in line in stolid silence a little closer to the door. Each day this line had grown longer. Bivens was not worrying. The king had spoken. The folly of these people in their insane efforts to wreck Bivens' bank was making impossible a return to normal business.

Stuart determined to face this crowd and have it out with them. He believed that a bold appeal to their reason would silence his critics and allay their insane fears. He told Bivens of his purpose over the telephone, and the financier protested vigorously:

"Don't do it, Jim. I beg of you," he pleaded. "It will be a waste of breath. Besides, you risk your life."

"I'll be there when the bank opens at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning," was the firm answer.

A Scene From "The Night Rider."

THE SOISSON.

"THE NIGHT RIDER."

Miss Norwood, who is making her stage debut, is a charming girl, possessing marked ability, which she undoubtedly inherits from her talented father. While she has long evinced a strong desire to embark on a stage career, Mr. Pollock has hitherto dissuaded her, fearing to have her undergo the hard up-hill struggle necessary to reach the top rung of the ladder of dramatic fame. But Miss Norwood was insistent and upon displaying a decided aptitude for the part, her father consented and she was made leading woman.

Gratified to her father, the role of Mary Andrews gives her full ther opportunity to show her deep devotion, although on the stage she love they bear each other, father and daughter find it unnecessary to depict entirely upon their emotional acting powers during the stirring scenes in which she professes her undying love and faith.

In the play Judge Andrews is corrupted by the night riders, who bribe him handsomely to render decisions favorable to their interests in the tobacco war in Kentucky. When it finally dawns upon the daughter that her father is dishonest, her great love asserts itself, and straightway she takes steps which bring about his reformation and redeem him in the eyes of the audience—a mighty delightful part, which Miss Norwood hugely enjoys. At Soisson Theatre, Saturday, October 19, matinee and evening.
